

Higher PPI Hints at CPI Upside Before Next Week's Fed Meeting

Bond yields are higher in early trading following the release of a disappointing November producer price index (PPI) report. The pace of producer inflation continued to trend lower last month, but not to the degree economists were expecting. Headline PPI rose +0.3%, above the +0.2% median forecast, while core PPI rose +0.4%, double the expected increase. Revisions to the October index were also higher.

Scott McIntyre

Read the full article

Read more Economic Commentary