

Yields Rise Sharply on Unexpectedly Strong (but Noisy) Labor Report

Non-farm payrolls rose by +467k in January, well above the median forecast of +125k, and nearly double the highest expected gain among the 78 economists surveyed by Bloomberg before the release. Adding to the surprising January payroll print was a massive +709k upward adjustment to the previous two months. Suddenly, the labor market, which had been looking peaked, seems to have perked up.

Scott McIntyre

Read the full article

Read more Economic Commentary