

Bonds Are Back

- We remain very bullish on bonds, especially U.S. municipal bonds.
- The severe market volatility witnessed last week underscores the importance of bonds. Fixed income investments, such as municipal bonds, could be considered a fundamental defensive play in the face of further market uncertainty.
- Municipal yields have dropped slightly but remain generationally attractive and tax-backed credit quality remains relatively strong.
- Demand for U.S. municipal bonds, in the form of investment dollars flowing into municipal mutual funds, continued to intensify in the beginning of August.

Read the full article

Read more Municipal Commentary

Tom Kozlik